Mary Rose worked as a front end developer for our digital agency based in Melbourne, Australia for some months this year. Mary Rose was extremely diligent, hard working, punctual and reliable. She is an excellent communicator, but also worked very well when left alone with a list of tasks. Mary Rose particularly impressed me with her efforts in learning new skills and tackling complicated requests. She never suggested something was too hard, instead she set about finding solutions.

I have worked with many developers in my 15 years in this industry, and Mary Rose was able to impress me regularly with her hard work and smart thinking.
